

UK Events

Special Events For your chance to meet Jeremy in person, why not attend one of the following charity events that have been lined up in the UK during 2010. Hit on the link to discover how you could not only meet the man himself, but help him to support a wealth of worthy causes. Aerial Splendour 2010

Following the success of the 2008/09 events, Jeremy will be returning to the air during the last week of September with his team of supporters on a round Europe Aerial Challenge to visit 45 Airfields in 72 hours in 6 countries! From North to South, East to West, Jeremy in a Latvian built Yakolev Yak18 (what else could it be), will be raising funds for a number of his chosen charities. The full itinerary of destinations will be added here in July! Be sure to pop along to your nearest airfield to wish him and his team well, and perhaps more importantly pop a few quid into the kitty. Memorial Day to Soviet Fallen during WW2 Jeremy is hosting a Very Special Memorial Day in November to co-incide with Remembrance Sunday in the UK. The event will honour the men, women and children of the Soviet Union who paid the ultimate sacrifice so that we can be free. Details of this event will be posted here as they become available, but we can confirm that a number of veterans will be present, as well as a number of Russian Performing artists.

The Santa Run 2010 Christmas is coming...the goose (i.e. Jeremy) is getting thinner (or so he thinks), and yes...it's that time of year again when we all don our Santa Suits to run in aid of Jeremy's Platinum Charity - When You Wish Upon a Star. This year sees events in Ayr, Leicester, Nottingham and Torquay, as well as Birmingham and the Orkneys which are new to the growing number of destinations hosting a Santa Run. Each year these events get bigger and better with more and more of you signing up to help us raise much needed funds to take seriously ill children to Lapland to see Santa. Why not click on the Santa below to discover how you can join in and loose a bit of weight before putting it all back on again over Christmas.
